I support severe punishment for microsoft actions, in the amount equal to the size that the company has become. It seems likely that most if this companies gains were made illegally and should be taken away. The damage caused is unlikely to be restored because of its ruthless destruction of smaller members of the computer industry. Untold billions are lost because this monopoly has not needed to produce quality secure programs. Choice is not readily available and competition is stifled. The paid journalists writing in false praise, and lobbyists bribing our government are a corruption of society and a mockery of justice. Our interests are best served by an example being made of them in this case. Respectively,
